

Making Room For God To Work

The other day I was wrestling with a problem in my mind when I heard the Holy Spirit say “make room for me to work”. I got the message that only when we have faith do we give God the elbow room to work for us. You can “worry” or you can have “faith” but you can’t do both. God is hobbled, stifled, and silenced by your own voice of unbelief.

Take your biggest problem and begin to speak faith, life and victory over it. Tell God you believe in him and you’re expecting him to take care of this problem you have committed to him. Now you have made room for God to come down and work for you! God never responds to anything but faith! You will never have what you speak against. Whining, complaining, and doubting are speaking against the Lord.

It all begins sooner than words, it begins with thoughts. Thoughts are just words unspoken. Take up the same challenge that the Lord gave to me, to speak life over things that are dead. Speak blessing over the cursed, God’s power over those that are weak. God loves this, it pleases him. God has no avenues outside of faith; his hands are tied till you start believing.

Faith is faith in God, not always the outcome, nor the way we want things to turn out. You have to release God to do whatever he sees is best. Our faith can become too restrictive, not allowing God the sovereignty over the situation. If the Lord has spoken to you something that he is going to do, then you can rest in the fact that it is done, but even then the working out of it, will probably not be what you had in mind or wanted. God does it this way to show us he is in control and he wants us to leave it with him. So make room for God to work, he longs to do it more than you know!!
