

The weakness of God

A strange statement for sure. How can an omnipotent God have a weakness? Paul said God had this weakness and that it was stronger than man.

In prayer recently I felt the Holy Spirit whisper a truth to me about this statement. The word “man” in the verse is the key. Man is God’s only weakness. Think of it, everything else in God’s creation does exactly what it was created to do. All the universe, including planets, stars, and galaxies stay in orbit, they obey perfectly. The animal kingdom obeys him following the nature God put in them. Man is the lone rebel. And God tied himself to us, he lashed his son to a cross and paid an unfathomable price for us.

We are his weakness, we cause him pain, we make him angry, jealous, sorrowful, and weep. And yet man is God’s greatest joy when he chooses God to love and serve him. Nothing delights his heart more; nothing brings him more joy than obedient children. David said in Psalms that God shouts over us, and rejoices. Angels, too, enjoy watching God work in his children.

God’s Weakness:

1. Shows the depths of his love and should make us love Him even more. That God is willing to put himself on the line for us, should make us never doubt him or lose faith!

2. Also we realize that even in his weakness God is much stronger than we are. His awesome eternal power is ours. He can do anything we can believe him for. The sovereign of the universe made himself weak in loving us, so his awesome power could flow through us showing others how great He is!!
