

“If God Be For Us.....

Most Christians know the rest of this verse .....who can be against us.” The challenge then lies in the fact that we need to find out “one thing”, is God for us?

Daily prayer lets me know what God is for and what He is against. I think even the small things in our lives, God has an opinion about. Truth is every decision should be brought before Him. “God are you for it or against it?” If he says nothing do nothing.

Daily reading of the Word brings light and illumination that you can get no other way. How we waste time in magazines and newspapers written out of the opinion of man. Only God’s Word is truth, eternal, and unchanging. Reading the Word lets you know in so many inferred ways what God is for and what He is against.

Daily proving all things. This simply means bring God into all decisions. It takes practice to give up control to another, even God. But we will never really know guidance until we release the reins of our lives in daily decisions to God. This brings me the greatest joy in my relationship. To know God cares about all the little things. Everyday I am aware of God’s voice over my life; sometimes a dozen times he will speak to me. What satisfaction this brings and an intimacy knowing he cares!

If God be for us who can be against us!

Commit: to give into trust to someone else. This is what we did this last Sunday as we laid our prayer requests on the altar. I trust all of you are finding your peace and joy this week.

Remember the 3 things the Spirit instructed us to do:

1. Commit: to give these needs to him letting go of it emotionally and physically.
2. When tests come concerning what we have committed to Him we are to praise him for the answer. And to speak faith to others this whole week.
3. To do something good for someone else. Show Christ’s love, not just saying it.

This is a valuable lesson God is at work in our lives, let us rejoice!
