

Is Jesus Really In Heaven?

If one of your family members was going on vacation and told you they would send you a gift when they got there and a few days later you received a gift from the country they were visiting, you would be assured of two things.

1. They loved you and were thinking of you while they were away. 2. That they had made it to their destination safely.

This is the precise reasoning of Jesus when he assured us with the words, "when I go away I will send the comforter". Jesus was saying when I get back to heaven and I am seated at the father's right hand, I will send you a gift to prove to you that I love you and that I am really here. The gift was the Holy Spirit and this last Sunday we all saw that Jesus is indeed still filling believers. 15 people in all in both services received the baptism! What a blessing, what an outpouring! It seemed every person I prayed for instantly went through to speaking in tongues. I have never seen the Holy Spirit fall in such a way!

Is Jesus still ruling? You bet He is, and the gift is here for anyone who is hungry for it!

God bless the church,

This is the amount of hits our website received last month! It seems incredible that without advertising or media coverage in any form our website would be accessed this much.

Two other amazing facts were, we received hits from 22 different countries. Also the average time a person stayed on the website was 23 minutes. This shows that many are watching our video feeds in sermons. I thank God for this outreach tool, may God use it for His Glory!
