

The pressure is the proof

Dear saints, we are under attack. Never have I heard of so many of you who are sick. And the sickness is prolonged with little relief coming for days. It seems one thing after another is coming at us. Others are telling of financial attacks, reversals, and problems.

Satan hopes for one thing through all of this.....discouragement, even a willingness to give up. But let me encourage all of us who are presently under the gun, in some way or another.

@ The pressure is the proof, that you are heading in the right direction. Satan doesn't attack what he already controls. He is irritated, even fearful of you and your aggressive stance in prayer and moving forward for God. So the next time you feel the headwind of Satan's aggression rejoice!

@ Turn the pressure to peace: if we know our position is right and God is for us, all we have to do is "resist the devil" and he will flee from us. Don't give time to the enemy, the moment you hear his accusing voice, cast it out and turn your thoughts toward the Word of God. When Satan sees you are consistent in your response to his threats, he will leave you alone. After all he doesn't want you closer to God!

@Turn the pressure to power: resident within you is the power of God. If you fellowship with God daily He is ever present in your life. When the enemy turns on the pressure, let the power of God that is within you come up and out of your mouth. Speak the Word of God with boldness. This is the time to display the power of God in your life. I remember one time a few years ago being awakened out of sleep by an attack of the enemy. I literally felt something hitting my body, but before I even became fully awake I heard myself coming out the bed speaking in tongues. This is the kind of response God is looking for, and the kind the enemy hates. Satan was hoping I would wake up and be fearful of his presence and the fact that he had hit me. He was wrong, and I have not been attacked like that since that occasion.

Turn the tables on the enemy - the next time he turns on the pressure, you turn on the power!!
